06 About these students

About the numbers. 238 students with a TestPrep diagnostic and an official SAT score on record, 2023, 2025 and 2026, from records last updated on 27 October 2026. Gains are averages; the median gain is 150 points. Every result on our official SAT results sheet with both scores counts, the official score against the diagnostic beside it, and the students who did not move up are in every average.

1,400 is where the SAT starts to open doors.

30 students on our official SAT results sheet finished there, or higher.

Here is where they came from, and how far they moved.

The group

- They started at 1,230 on average, and finished at 1,438.
- The median gain was 155 points.
- 28 of 30 scored higher on the official SAT than on their diagnostic.
- 8 reached 1,450 or above.

Where they started

Most were already strong on day one.

- 20 started at 1,200 or above.
- 9 started between 1,000 and 1,190.
- 1 started below 1,000.

A strong start is not a finished score. Near the top, the easy marks are already in hand. What is left is the harder module, the dense passages and the last questions in each section, and every point there costs more.

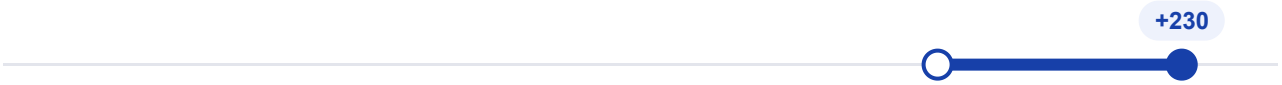

Six journeys

Six real results from the top of the sheet. No names, no schools.

THREE OF THE HIGHEST FINISHES

A student, 2025

1,510 on the official SAT

1,280 at the diagnostic

1,510 on the official SAT

A student, 2025

1,510 on the official SAT

1,330 at the diagnostic

1,510 on the official SAT

Six results from the top of our official SAT results sheet: the first TestPrep diagnostic (ring) to the official SAT (dot). No names, no schools.

The highest finishes

Three students who were already above 1,200 on day one, and finished at 1,500 or above.

The gap between a strong score and a top score is narrow. These students closed it.

The biggest climbs

Three students who started just above 1,000, and crossed 1,400.

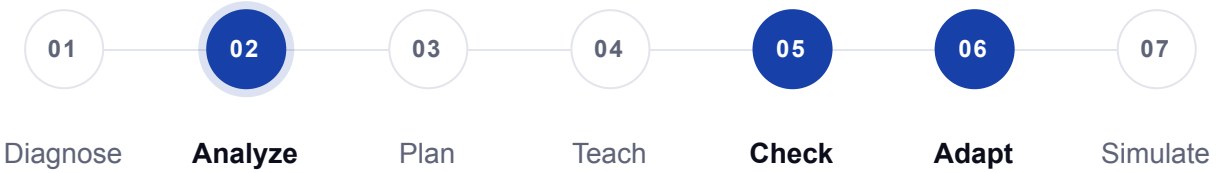

From the middle of the scale to the top.

What it took

The same seven steps every TestPrep student goes through. Near the top, three of them carry the most weight.

06 · THE TESTPREP EFFECT

About these students

These six are real results from our official SAT results sheet. We show them without names or schools, and the photos in this post show TestPrep students at the centre, not the six above.

A student's own story, with their name, appears only with their written consent, and a parent's as well for anyone under 18. If you finished at the top and want to tell yours, tell us.
